Cities for People, Not for Profit Neil Brenner, Peter Marcuse, Margit Mayer, 2012-06-25 The worldwide financial crisis has sent shock waves of accelerated economic restructuring regulatory reorganization and sociopolitical conflict through cities around the world It has also given new impetus to the struggles of urban social movements emphasizing the injustice destructiveness and unsustainability of capitalist forms of urbanization This book contributes analyses intended to be useful for efforts to roll back contemporary profit based forms of urbanization and to promote alternative radically democratic and sustainable forms of urbanism The contributors provide cutting edge analyses of contemporary urban restructuring including the issues of neoliberalization gentrification colonization creative cities architecture and political power sub prime mortgage foreclosures and the ongoing struggles of right to the city movements At the same time the book explores the diverse interpretive frameworks critical and otherwise that are currently being used in academic discourse in political struggles and in everyday life to decipher contemporary urban transformations and contestations The slogan cities for people not for profit sets into stark relief what the contributors view as a central political question involved in efforts at once theoretical and practical to address the global urban crises of our time Drawing upon European and North American scholarship in sociology politics geography urban planning and urban design the book provides useful insights and perspectives for citizens activists and intellectuals interested in exploring alternatives to contemporary forms of capitalist urbanization Citizenship, Activism and the City Patricia Burke Wood, 2017-04-21 This book examines post crisis protest as a global yet intensely local movement It reframes the theorization of both protest and of the city in local and global contexts It bridges four key ideas human rights discourse and citizenship practice political economy and social geography approaches to understandings of the city post political literature and the history of politics and protest and Marxist and anarchist ideas about the time and space of politics This book adopts a unique approach to provide new theoretical insights and challenges to post political thinking

A Theology of Land Christopher Gerard Sexton, 2019-07-01 On the face of things the spirituality of Australia's Aboriginals is hard to reconcile with a spirituality of Christian theology with its human centrism apt to a Son of God in Man made flesh in Jesus Christ Nevertheless this author Christopher Sexton a Sydney based lawyer drew on his deep Catholic theological beliefs and intense dialogue with Aboriginal elders to find a surprisingly common ground and in abundance The creation stories of each lay emphasis on humanity's stewardship for the search and its mystical riches Here is a book by a Christian lawyer who consulted widely and deeply with our First People's He found more in common between our distinct spiritualities than might be expected Proving once again that listening deeply to each other will often yield common ground

Cities for People, Not for Profit Neil Brenner, Peter Marcuse, Margit Mayer, 2012-06-25 The financial crisis has given new impetus to the struggles of oppositional urban social movements that have long emphasized the injustice destructiveness and unsustainability of capitalist forms of urbanization Through contributions by urban theorists sociologists geographers political scientists planners and activists the volume explores the possibilities for and constraints upon critical urban theory and practice today Ideas are linked by a common theme the difficulties that are created for people by cities organized for profit and the existing trends struggles and movements that might change their course to construct alternative forms of urbanism The slogan cities for people not for profit thus sets into stark relief what the authors view as a central political objective for ongoing efforts at once theoretical and practical to address the global urban crises of our time Exploring Earthiness Anne Primavesi, 2013-07-17 If we see ourselves as Earth rather than Earth as existing for us our perspective is transformed A variety of religious philosophical cultural and political self perceptions that dominate our sense of human identity are deeply challenged by this shift in perspective John Locke's doctrine of Earth as human property has been central to current presuppositions about our selves justified on the grounds of our possessing unique divinely bestowed rational abilities But today the effects of that doctrine on Earth s resource base and on its other than human creatures directly challenge such assumptions At the same time contemporary scientific findings about the evolution of earthly life demonstrate that while we belong to Earth and nowhere else Earth does not belong to us Exploring this role reversal raises fundamental questions about current theological philosophical scientific and economic presuppositions that underpin the business as usual viewpoint and human centered aims of contemporary policies and lifestyles It takes us beyond hierarchical Christian and philosophical doctrines toward a deeper Earth focused and peace based understanding of what it means to be human today

Charting Literary Urban Studies Jens Martin Gurr,2020-12-10 Guided by the multifaceted relations between city and text Charting Literary Urban Studies Texts as Models of and for the City attempts to chart the burgeoning field of literary urban studies by outlining how texts in varying degrees function as both representations of the city and as blueprints for its future development The study addresses questions such as these How do literary texts represent urban complexities and how can they capture the uniqueness of a given city How do literary texts simulate layers of urban memory and how can they reinforce or help dissolve path dependencies in urban development What role can literary studies play in interdisciplinary urban research Are the blueprints or recipes for urban development that most quickly travel around the globe such as the creative city the green city or the smart city really always the ones that best solve a given problem Or is the global spread of such travelling urban models not least a matter of their narrative packaging In answering these key questions this book also advances a literary studies contribution to the general theory of models tracing a heuristic trajectory from the analysis of literary texts as representations of urban developments to an analysis of literary strategies in planning documents and other pragmatic non literary texts

Duchrow,Franz J. Hinkelammert,2013-07-04 The issue of private property and the rights it confers remain almost undiscussed in critiques of globalization and free market economics Yet property lies at the heart of an economic system geared to profit maximization The authors describe the historically specific and self consciously explicit manner in which it emerged They trace this history from earliest historical times and show how in the hands of Thomas Hobbes and John Locke in particular the notion of private property took on its absolutist nature and most extreme form a form which neoliberal economics is now imposing on humanity worldwide through the pressures of globalization They argue that avoiding the destruction of people's ways of living and of Nature requires reshaping our notions of private property They look at practical ways for social and ecumenical movements to press for alternatives Readings in Contemporary Problems in the United States Horace Taylor, Joseph Daniel McGoldrick, 1930 Gift of Rabbi W Gunther Plaut Reports of Cases Argued and Decided in the Supreme Court of the State of Texas Texas. Supreme Court, 1887 The New Urban Park Hal Rothman, 2004 From Yellowstone to the Great Smoky Mountains America's national parks are sprawling tracts of serenity most of them carved out of public land for recreation and preservation around the turn of the last century America has changed dramatically since then and so has its conceptions of what parkland ought to be In this book one of our premier environmental historians looks at the new phenomenon of urban parks focusing on San Francisco's Golden Gate National Recreation Area as a prototype for the twenty first century Cobbled together from public and private lands in a politically charged arena the GGNRA represents a new direction for parks as it highlights the long standing tension within the National Park Service between preservation and recreation Long a center of conservation the Bay Area was well positioned for such an innovative concept Writing with insight and wit Rothman reveals the many complex challenges that local leaders politicians and the NPS faced as they attempted to administer sites in this area He tells how Representative Phillip Burton guided a comprehensive bill through Congress to establish the park and how he and others expanded the acreage of the GGNRA redefined its mission to the public forged an identity for interconnected parks and struggled against formidable odds to obtain the San Francisco Presidio and convert it into a national park Engagingly written The New Urban Park offers a balanced examination of grassroots politics and its effect on municipal state and federal policy While most national parks dominate the economies of their regions GGNRA was from the start tied to the multifaceted needs of its public and political constituents including neighborhood ethnic and labor interests as well as the usual supporters from the conservation movement As a national recreation area GGNRA helped redefine that category in the public mind By the dawn of the new century it had already become one of the premier national park areas in terms of visitation Now as public lands become increasingly scarce GGNRA may well represent the future of national parks in America Rothman shows that this model works and his book will be an invaluable resource for planning tomorrow's parks Essentials of Contemporary Business Louis E.
