UXD and UCD Approaches for Accessible Education Mendoza-González, Ricardo, Luna-García, Huizilopoztli, Mendoza-González, Alfredo, 2020-01-03 It is widely agreed throughout the world that education and access to education are human rights In order to accommodate the educational needs of people globally technology will be required that supports inclusion and promotes equity for both learning processes and governance in educational institutions In order to achieve this technological resources must be designed to be accessible and usable for all individuals by implementing user centered design UCD and user experience design UXD processes UXD and UCD Approaches for Accessible Education is an academic research publication that explores thoughts and experiences on accessible and equitable education from perspectives on human computer interaction user research and design thinking It seeks to improve the understanding on how technology should be designed to truly contribute to and support accessibility and equity in education Featuring a wide range of topics such as online courses inclusive education and virtual reality this publication is essential for academicians curriculum designers researchers instructional designers educational software developers IT consultants policymakers administrators and students For Profit Higher Education: The Failure to Safeguard the Federal Investment, ... Volume 4 of 4, July 30, 2012, 112-2 Committee Print, S. Prt. 112-37, *, ,2012 For Profit Higher Education ,2012 Mobile-Mindful Teaching and Learning Christina Moore,2023-07-03 This book provides faculty and instructors with an introductory guide to integrating mobile learning in their courses Recognizing that a smartphone is the first and main piece of technology anyone owns with ownership exceeding 95% for those aged 18 29 with a sizable minority of these being smartphone dependent and that instructors are relying on technology for teaching and learning more than ever this book addresses the imperative that course materials and interactions be increasingly available through the technology that students use most often Dispelling the notion that mobile learning is for the tech savvy and adventurous mobile mindful teaching offers teachers a way to take a few steps at a time share options with students and progressively develop ideas and practices The book invites you to explore your own way into mobile learning Christina Moore stresses two principles as you engage with mobile learning intention and fluidity This begins with mindfully implementing mobile learning opportunities so that students see the usefulness of learning via phone and recognizing the fluid learning environments in which students learn so you can offer online modalities and functions appropriate to purpose and situations The book opens with a start with self section on How to Be a Mobile Mindful Learner offering ideas on exploring the almost infinite available online resources in your discipline to curate a rich and ever expanding compilation of ideas for use in your scholarly work and teaching and identifying different types of learning digital reading audio and visual learning and social learning across multiple devices and contexts to consider as you develop your course The section Toward Mobile Mindful Teaching explores ways to add mobile options to existing learning materials and how they and the LMS functions you use are rendered on a phone by taking a mobile test drive through your course Christina

Moore shows how by building up your mobile learning skills to be a more productive scholar and developing habits that feed your curiosity and creativity you can start planning how you can create fluid learning opportunities for your students they can access across devices time and space and take advantage of found moments of time and informal spaces Myitlab with Pearson Etext -- Access Card -- For Technology in Action Alan Evans,Kendall Martin,Mary Anne Poatsy,2016-04-15
