The Illinois Scholarship of Agriculture and Natural Resources (ISANR) is pleased to announce several additional eligible institutions for the 2024-2025 selection process. The program provides a unique opportunity for the nation's students to gain a total, 1-year scholarship to earn a second bachelor's (BA) or master's (MA) and 1-20 weeks of travel. The selection of institutions was based on input on the Government's policy of admitting students with Native American tribal affiliations to provide an equal and healthy educational environment. Institutions chosen and the preferred conditions of admission required for each program are listed below, including completing the selection process.

The University further affirms that all students selected are self-identified non-residents and will be supported during their education, including students based on citizenship status.

The selection of the program is a competitive process and is subject to the University's selection process. For more information, please contact the ISANR office at isnr@uiowa.edu or www.isnr.org.
