

Activity 10

Reading: Genetic Variation in Cornelian Workshoos and genetic variation in genomes (complete each of the following questions, demonstrating your understanding of the concepts discussed in the lecture)

1. Match each of the following changes to DNA sequence structure to its definition:

A. Deletion

B. Duplication

C. Inversion

D. Translocation

(a. a section of a chromosome is inserted)

(b. a piece of a chromosome is deleted)

(c. a segment of one chromosome has moved (inverted) to a different, non-homologous chromosome)

(d. a section of a chromosome appears to be on more than one

2. How many genetically different gametes can be produced from a diploid cell with four chromosomes pairs? Describe your answer.

There are 16 genetically different gametes that can be produced because in 2ⁿ where n is total number chromosomes pairs, in this case with four chromosomes pairs we have 2⁴ or 16 genetically different gametes.

3. Although you will learn a classification of mutations that is useful, you recognize that some mutations cause the loss of function of proteins. (For example, both colour and eye colour's ability may cause both the individual together?)

That's because a mutation together can result in the same chromosome. Therefore, there are two possible scenarios: one is a mutation that only causes one loss of function chromosome, there will be a loss of function cause the mutation in the genome, while, the other may not be affected together.

4. Describe the alignment of chromosomes during prophase I, write the equations:

Chromosomes I undergo crossing and homologous chromosomes align together, called synapsis. This is a synapsis because it shows the pairing between sister and results in two double chromosomes.

5. How does recombination lead to chromosomes with recombinant nuclei? Describe two types of genetic variation that can result from recombination.
