

An Academic Essay: The Opening Paragraph

A good introduction makes your paper more organized and your argument dive deeper, all while compelling the audience to read on. Here are some tips on starting your paper with a solid intro paragraph.

Make the Intro Your Paper's Road Map

- Clearly tell the reader what you are going to accomplish in your paper.
- Ideally, each main point of your argument should be distilled into a sentence.

How specific should I get?

Students often get paranoid about not letting on too much about their paper in the introduction. But an intro should be as specific as possible while still keeping your paragraph succinct and clear. You might introduce a main source text, offer an anecdote, and/or lay out your methodology for arriving at your thesis statement.

Opening sentence

Avoid any broad generalizations or boring, obvious statements. Think about opening your intro with a stimulating quote or a crucial dilemma that you will work to solve. Attention grabbing anecdotes, examples, or questions are fine, but just remember that you will need to transition between the opening sentence and your argument in just a sentence or two.

Thesis statement

Your thesis should be the conclusion you have reached in your analysis. It should not tell readers what you are going to do, implore them to read on, or ask a question. It should make a succinct, detailed, arguable claim that you will work to prove throughout your entire paper.

Process of writing

Although the introduction is the first thing your audience will read (besides your title), it doesn't have to be the first thing you write. The creation of your intro can mirror your drafting and revision process.

1. When you start devising your argument and laying out the movement of the first few paragraphs, begin the first part of your intro.
2. As you continue to dive deeper into your brainstorming, research, and analysis, you may find that your argument delves into places you never thought about initially. As your argument progresses, you can keep building on to your intro.
3. The deepest part of your analysis will eventually become your thesis statement and the final sentence of your introductory paragraph.
