Natural Sites and Spiritual Governance John Studley, 2018-10-26 Since time immemorial indigenous people have engaged in legal relationships with other than human persons These relationships are exemplified in enspirited sacred natural sites which are owned and governed by numina spirits that can potentially place legal demands on humankind in return for protection and blessing Although conservationists recognise the biodiverse significance of most sacred natural sites the role of spiritual agency by other than human persons is not well understood Consequently sacred natural sites typically lack legal status and IUCN designated protection More recent ecocentric and posthuman worldviews and polycentric legal frameworks have allowed courts and legislatures to grant rights to nature and juristic personhood and standing to biophysical entities This book examines the indigenous literature and recent legal cases as a pretext for granting juristic personhood to enspirited sacred natural sites The author draws on two decades of his research among Tibetans in Kham southwest China to provide a detailed case study It is argued that juristic personhood is contingent upon the presence and agency of a resident numina and that recognition should be given to their role in spiritual governance over their jurisdiction The book concludes by recommending that advocacy organisations help indigenous people with test cases to secure standing for threatened sacred natural sites SNS and calls upon IUCN UNESCO MAB and WHS ASEAN Heritage and EuroNatura to retrospectively re designate their properties reserves parks and initiatives so that SNS and spiritual governance are fully recognised and embraced It will be of great interest to advanced students and researchers in environmental law nature conservation religion and anthropology

Trust-Based Observations Craig Randall,2020-07-30 The results are in observations are not improving teaching and learning Pertinently the Gates Foundation s recently completed effort to improve student outcomes through enhancing the teacher evaluation process failed to achieve substantive improvement The way observations are currently designed serve as an obstacle to teacher risk taking Teachers fear negative evaluations when their pedagogy is rated and they lack faith in being supported by supervisors because a trusting relationship between them and their observer has not been built Trust Based Observations Maximizing Teaching and Learning Growth is a schema changing evaluation model that understands people perform at their best when they feel safe and supported It begins with twelve 20 minute observations per week followed by collegial conversations driven by reflective questions sharing observed teaching strengths and the building of safe and trusting relationships with teachers Add the elimination of rating pedagogical skills and replace it with rating mindset and teachers trust When teachers fully embrace risk taking and innovation it leads to remarkable teaching transformations and improved student learning
