Elson,R. Alan Covey,2022-06-21 From the Mesoamerican highlands to the Colca Valley in Peru pre Columbian civilizations were bastions of power that have largely been viewed through the lens of rulership or occasionally through bottom up perspectives of resistance Rather than focusing on rulers or peasants this book examines how intermediate elites both men and women helped to develop sustain and resist state policies and institutions Employing new archaeological and ethnohistorical data its contributors trace a 2 000 year trajectory of elite social evolution in the Zapotec Wari Aztec Inka and Maya civilizations This is the first volume to consider how individuals subordinate to imperial rulers helped to shape specific forms of state and imperial organization Taking a broader scope than previous studies it is one of the few works to systematically address these issues in both Mesoamerica and the Central Andes It considers how these individuals influenced the long term development of the largest civilizations of the ancient Americas opening a new window on the role of intermediate elites in the rise and fall of ancient states and empires worldwide The authors demonstrate how such evidence as settlement patterns architecture decorative items and burial patterns reflect the roles of intermediate elites in their respective societies arguing that they were influential actors whose interests were highly significant in shaping the specific forms of state and imperial organization Their emphasis on provincial elites particularly shifts examination of early states away from royal capitals and imperial courts explaining how local elites and royal bureaucrats had significant impact on the development and organization of premodern states Together these papers demonstrate that intricate networks of intermediate elites bound these ancient societies together and that competition between individuals and groups contributed to their decline and eventual collapse By addressing current theoretical concerns with agency resistance to state domination and the co option of local leadership by imperial administrators it offers valuable new insight into the utility of studying intermediate elites Proceedings of the 10th International Conference on Movement, Health and Exercise Mohd Hasnun Arif Hassan,Lian Yee Kok,Ahmad
