7 PRINCIPLES OF GOVERNMENT

Why Do We Have Principles of Government?

The United States was founded on the idea that people should have a voice in how they are governed. When the Constitution was written in 1787, the writers wanted to make sure that the government would be strong but fair, and that no one person or group could take too much power. To do this, they built the government on seven basic principles. These principles act like rules or values that shape how the government works and how it protects our rights. Let's explore each of these principles and how they connect to everyday life.

Popular Sovereignty – Power to the People

Popular sovereignty is the idea that the government's power comes from the people. That means citizens are the source of all political power. In a country like the United States, the government cannot do whatever it wants unless the people allow it. We show our power through voting. Every time citizens vote in an election—whether for the president, a mayor, or a school board member, they are using their voice to help make decisions for the country.

For example, imagine your school is voting on a new mascot. Everyone gets to vote, and the one with the most votes wins. That's a small version of popular sovereignty in action! In the same way, American citizens vote to choose leaders who represent their ideas and values.

Republicanism – Electing Leaders to Represent Us

While popular sovereignty means the people have power, republicanism is about how we use that power. In the U.S., we don't vote on every single law or decision. Instead, we elect representatives, people who speak and make decisions for us in the government. This is called a republic.

When voters choose members of Congress, state lawmakers, or city council members, they are practicing republicanism. These representatives are expected to listen to the people who elected them and to act in their best interest. If they don't, voters can choose someone else in the next election. It's like picking a class leader to speak for the whole class, you trust them to share your ideas and help make good choices for everyone.

Federalism – Sharing Power Between National and State Government

Federalism is the principle that divides power between the national (or federal) government and the state governments. This way, no single level of government has total control. Both the national and state governments have their own responsibilities, but they also work together in many ways.

For example, the federal government handles big-picture issues like printing money, running the military, and making treaties with other countries. State governments take care of things like running schools, issuing driver's licenses, and setting local traffic laws. Think of it like a team, each member has different roles, but they all work toward the same goal.

Separation of Powers – Dividing the Government into Three Branches

To make sure no part of the government gets too powerful, the Constitution created three separate branches of government. This idea is called separation of powers. Each branch has its own job:

- The Legislative Branch (Congress) makes the laws.
- The Executive Branch (the President and government agencies) carries out the laws.
- The Judicial Branch (the courts) interprets the laws and makes sure they follow the Constitution.

This setup keeps any one group from doing everything. It's like dividing up chores at home, one person can't do it all, and sharing the work helps prevent problems.
