

If you think most students would find going on Youtube and loading up a former president's speech and actually listening to it rather boring, you may think twice- if you look up Eisenhower Farewell Address Military Industrial Complex Speech. It is about 15 minutes long, and was addressed to the nation on TV:

"My fellow Americans, three days from now, after half a century in the service of our country, I shall lay down the responsibilities of office as... the authority of the presidency is vested in my successor. This evening I come to you with a message of farewell and to share a few final thoughts with you, my countrymen. Like every other citizen, I wish the new president Godspeed. I pray that the coming years will be blessed with peace and prosperity for all... We now stand ten years past the midpoint of a century that has witnessed four major wars among great nations. Three involved our own country. Despite these holocausts, America is today the strongest, the most influential and most productive nation in the world. Unquestionably proud of this pre-eminence, we yet realize that America's leadership and prestige depend not merely upon our unmatched material progress, riches and military strength, but on how we use our power in the interests of world peace and human betterment."

What does Eisenhower call on Americans to realize in the new decade of the 1960s?

"Throughout America's adventure in free government, our basic purposes have been to keep the peace; to foster progress in achievement; and to enhance liberty, dignity and integrity among people and nations... Progress toward these noble goals is persistently threatened by the conflict now engulfing the world. It commands our whole attention, absorbs our very beings. We face a hostile ideology- global in scope, atheistic in character, ruthless in purpose, and insidious in method. Unhappily the danger it poses [seems] of indefinite duration."

What is the threat Eisenhower is saying commands the 'whole attention' of the America of the 1960s?

- a. Economic meltdown b. Fascism c. Cold War rivalry d. Climate change

"A vital element in keeping the peace is our military establishment. Our arms must be mighty, ready for instant action, so that no potential aggressor may be tempted to risk his own destruction... [but] the conjunction of an immense military establishment and a large arms industry is new in the American experience... In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists and will persist. We must never let the weight of this combination endanger our liberties or democratic processes. We should take nothing for granted. Only an alert and knowledgeable citizenry can compel the proper meshing of the huge industrial and military machinery of defense with our peaceful methods and goals, so that security and liberty may prosper together... Down the long lane of the history yet to be written America knows that this world of ours, ever growing smaller, must avoid becoming a community of dreadful fear and hate, and be, instead, a confederation of mutual trust and respect. Such a confederation must be one of equals."

What is the warning Eisenhower is giving to Americans here in his last speech to the nation?

- a. America should be less powerful b. Americans should be vigilant and pay attention
