

Activity 10

Reading: Genetic Variation in Cornelian Worksho and genetic variation in genetics (complete each of the following questions, demonstrating your understanding of the concepts discussed in the lecture)

1. Match each of the following changes in DNA sequence structure to its definition:

A. Deletion

B. Duplication

C. Inversion

D. Translocation

E. as section of a chromosome is inserted

F. as piece of chromosome is deleted

G. as segment of one chromosome is broken up and reassembled in different order (inversions, translocations)

H. as section of a chromosome appears to be on one chromosome or another

2. How many genetically different gametes can be produced from a diploid cell with four chromosomes pairs? Describe your answer.

There are 16 genetically different gametes that can be produced because in 2<sup>n</sup> where n is total number chromosomes pairs, in this case with four chromosomes pairs we have 2<sup>4</sup> or 16 genetically different gametes

3. Although you will learn a classification of mutations that is useful, you recognize that some mutations cause the loss of function (for example, both colour and eye colour). Why may some mutations be inherited together?

They have a similar location and thus are the same chromosome. Therefore they are inherited together and a mutation of one may only cause one mutation. Mutations on the same chromosome will be inherited together and results in the same mutation. Mutations may not be inherited together.

4. Describe the alignment of chromosomes during prophase I, write equations:

Homologous chromosomes I chromosomes crossing and homologous chromosomes align together, called synapsis. This is a synapsis because it shows the crossing between sister and results in two double chromosomes.

5. How does recombination lead to chromosomes with different numbers? Describe two types of genetic mutations that can result from recombination.
