Understanding how biological diversity affects ecosystem functioning is a key question in modern ecology This is of particular importance in the general context of recent global changes caused by human activities such as water abstraction flow regulation shifts in agricultural practices contamination climate changes and biological invasions These changes are affecting biodiversity ecosystem functioning and their complex interactions simultaneously However our ability to understand how genes individuals populations communities and ecosystems may respond to such changes is limited despite ecologists frequently being requested to provide policymakers and managers with predictions Indeed the species that composed biodiversity can establish complex trophic links between them in the ecosystems This structure of food webs is under the permanent constraint of community dynamics which connects species populations communities and ecosystems Therefore the response of food webs to perturbations can help ecologists to better understand the relationship between biological diversity and ecosystem functioning
