Section 1: What is Chemistry?

- Describe ways in which chemistry is a part of your daily life.
- Describe the characteristics of three common states of matter.
- Describe physical and chemical changes, and give examples of each.
- Identify the reactants and products in a chemical reaction.
- List four observations that suggest a chemical change has occurred.

A _____ is any substance that has a definite composition. A _____ is the process by which one or more substances change to produce one or more new substances. The _____ of _____ are the physical forms of matter which are solid, liquid, gas, and plasma.

- _____ have a fixed volume and shape that result from the way their particles are arranged.
- _____ have a fixed volume but not a fixed shape.
- _____ have neither fixed volume nor shape.

Physical changes are changes in which the _____ of a substance doesn't change.

- Changes of state are physical changes.

Chemical changes occur when the _____ of substances change and new substances form.

Evidence of a chemical change:

The block contains four photographs, each with a corresponding caption describing a chemical change.
a) A beaker containing a white powdery substance with a test tube pouring a clear liquid into it, causing bubbles to form.
b) A beaker containing a yellow liquid with a test tube pouring a clear liquid into it, resulting in a white precipitate.
c) A small metal object (aluminum) placed in a clay pot over a flame, emitting a bright white light and heat.
d) A flask containing a clear liquid with a test tube pouring a pink liquid into it, causing the entire mixture to turn pink.

- When acetic acid, in vinegar, and sodium hydrogen carbonate, or baking soda, are mixed, the solution bubbles as carbon dioxide forms.
- When solutions of sodium sulfide and cadmium nitrate are mixed, cadmium sulfide, a solid precipitate, forms.
- When aluminum reacts with iron(III) oxide in the clay pot, energy is released as heat and light.
- When phenolphthalein is added to ammonia dissolved in water, a color change from colorless to pink occurs.
