South Africa Alexander Johnston, 2014-07-31 This latest volume in the series is a book on nation building in post apartheid South Africa The Standardisation of African Languages, 2008 SA Tribes Steven M. Burgess, Mari Harris, Robert B. Mattes, 2002 Every South African has a stake in a peaceful and prosperous South Africa The SA Tribes programme is one of the most comprehensive research studies carried out in South Africa's history Nearly 15 000 South Africans were interviewed during the period 1997-2001 From the poorest Xhosa speakers in the Eastern Cape to wealthy Sandton executives representatives from every strata of this country's diverse populace have been questioned The resultant assessment is as thought provoking as it is groundbreaking UCT professor Steve Burgess has worked closely with learned colleagues from all over the world and has enjoyed extensive support from leading research companies Markinor and Gallup to put together this authoritative and insightful portrait of the Rainbow Nation as it heads towards its 10th anniversary Although initially conceived as a tool for marketers seeking to understand the changing demographics of the new South Africa SA Tribes has become required reading for anyone determined to understand the social and political geography of the country SA Tribes contends that understanding and embracing our social identities rather than dwelling on racial differences is key to a successful society in South Africa Thanks to the SA Tribes study we are now better placed than ever to know and understand our neighbours Education Africa Forum, 2000 This Week in South Africa, 1996-12-31 A weekly news summary of the major daily newspapers in the Pretoria Johannesburg metropolitan area Making Education Inclusive Sharon Moonsamy, Elizabeth Walton, 2015-09-18 Exclusionary pressures and practices are pervasive in education despite the clamour for more inclusive education Even as classrooms worldwide become more diverse education is unlikely to become inclusive without deliberate efforts to dismantle exclusion and enable inclusion This book is a compilation of contributions to the conversation about what these efforts might entail The conversation has its origins in the Making Education Inclusive Conference held in 2013 which brought together academics and practitioners from Southern Africa and other countries Given the expectation that teachers should play a key role in promoting inclusion it is not surprising to find significant interest in teacher education from many of the contributing authors Their concerns range from explicit teacher development for pedagogical responsiveness to learner diversity to overcoming the epistemological marginalisation that learners experience where teachers are not fully confident of their subject content and how to teach it Access to education is clearly not enough and other contributors to this book concern themselves with ways in which structures and systems could be reconstituted to enable meaningful inclusion This might mean looking at how teachers might use tiered systems of behaviour support and various metacognitive strategies how physical access can be promoted on a university campus and understanding how parents think about disability Each chapter represents a different perspective on what it might mean to resist educational exclusion in its many forms and each offers possible ways to make education more inclusive Language

Parliament. Senate. Subcommittee on Languages, 1995 Speaking Subjects in Multilingualism Research Judith Purkarthofer, Mi-Cha Flubacher, 2022-07-22 This book discusses salient moments of multilingual encounters and brings together contributions focused on the interplay between language use by individuals and societies and language related inequalities or opportunities for speakers The chapters demonstrate how biographical and speaker centred approaches can contribute to an understanding of linguistic diversity how researchers can empirically account for lived experiences of languages and how such accounts are embedded in a larger discussion on social inequality Together the chapters make a powerful case for the importance of speaker centred methodologies in multilingual and multilingualism research The book is a rich source of theoretical and methodological reflections and will thus be a valuable resource for both experienced researchers and students beginning to explore biographical research methods Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts, 2006-07 Ohio University Working Papers in Linguistics and Language Teaching, 1996 Interpellations, Questions and Replies of the National Assembly South Africa. Parliament (1994-).
