Laud Geometry End Of Course Exam:

The Algebra Conspiracy Michael Wiener, 2000-09 The Algebra Conspiracy is an irreverent radical politically incorrect passionate challenge to the increasingly popular program of the educational establishment which requires every student to take two to four years of college preparatory mathematics to earn a high school diploma These well meaning but misguided people are placing every secondary school student into Algebra Geometry and Trigonometry classes that they may not want that they may not need to fulfill requirements for future employment or that they may not be academically equipped to handle This means for instance that a youngster who has trouble adding common fractions computing with percents or even making change on a ten dollar purchase will nevertheless be required to pass Algebra and Geometry In many school districts this is already creating an academic nightmare as more and more math teachers are faced with the Hobson's choice of either failing many of their students who simply cannot handle Algebra and Geometry or handing out numerous gift D's or severely watering down the college prep mathematics curriculum so more students can pass the classes The author takes the controversial view that the Age of Technology notwithstanding a large percentage of today's secondary school youngsters could if allowed live their entire adult working lives very comfortably without ever being forced to set foot in Algebra and Geometry classrooms There are many other classes that these youngsters should be taking such as cultural or practical arts electives instead of wasting their time in college prep math classes

Stuck in the Shallow End, updated edition Jane Margolis, 2017-02-24 Why so few African American and Latino students study computer science updated edition of a book that reveals the dynamics of inequality in American schools The number of African Americans and Latino students receiving undergraduate and advanced degrees in computer science is disproportionately low And relatively few African American and Latino high school students receive the kind of institutional encouragement educational opportunities and preparation needed for them to choose computer science as a field of study and profession In Stuck in the Shallow End Jane Margolis and coauthors look at the daily experiences of students and teachers in three Los Angeles public high schools an overcrowded urban high school a math and science magnet school and a well funded school in an affluent neighborhood They find an insidious virtual segregation that maintains inequality The race gap in computer science Margolis discovers is one example of the way students of color are denied a wide range of occupational and educational futures Stuck in the Shallow End is a story of how inequality is reproduced in America and how students and teachers given the necessary tools can change the system Since the 2008 publication of Stuck in the Shallow End the book has found an eager audience among teachers school administrators and academics This updated edition offers a new preface detailing the progress in making computer science accessible to all a new postscript and discussion questions coauthored by Jane Margolis and Joanna Goode

Stuck in the Shallow End Jane Margolis, 2008-08-15 The number of African Americans and Latino students receiving undergraduate and advanced degrees in computer science is disproportionately low according to recent surveys And relatively few African American and Latino high school students receive the kind of institutional encouragement, educational opportunities, and preparation needed for them to choose computer science as a field of study and profession. In Stuck in the Shallow End, Jane Margolis looks at the daily experiences of students and teachers in three Los Angeles public high schools: an overcrowded urban high school, a math and science magnet school, and a well-funded school in an affluent neighborhood. She finds an insidious virtual segregation that maintains inequality. Two of the three schools studied offer only low-level keyboarding, cutting, and pasting introductory computing classes. The third and wealthiest school offers advanced courses, but very few students of color enroll in them. The race gap in computer science, Margolis finds, is one example of the way students of color are denied a wide range of occupational and educational futures. Margolis traces the interplay of school structures, such as course offerings and student-to-counselor ratios, and belief systems, including teachers' assumptions about their students and students' assumptions about themselves. Stuck in the Shallow End is a story of how inequality is reproduced in America and how students and teachers, given the necessary tools, can change the system.
