

METHODS OF VENTILATION & COOLING

1. Radial ventilating system:

This is commonly employed because the movement of rotor induces natural centrifugal motion of the air. The movement of the air can be increased by rotor fans. Fig.(c) shows the radial system for small machines say below 20kw rating.

The end brackets are so arranged and shaped to guide air over the overhang and the back of the core. For large size machines having longer core lengths, subdivision of the core is necessary, as shown in fig.(d). The air paths through the radial ducts are in parallel with those across the over hang.
