

Introduction

The United States has a strong gun culture, and it is estimated that there are over 300 million privately owned firearms in the country. With this number, the US is a developed country with the highest proportion of private gun ownership. In recent years, there have been calls for the government to impose harsh gun control policies to limit the number of firearms in private hands. These calls have been made in light of some highly publicized incidences of gun-related violence in the country. Cases of mass murders carried out with guns such as the Sandy Hook Killings and the Virginia Polytechnic shootings have been used to support the adoption of a stringent domestic policy on gun control. This position paper is against the imposition of gun control by the Federal and State government. The paper reveals that the relationship between gun ownership and violence in the US is misleading, and in addition to this, the government does not have the constitutional right to control gun ownership.

Advocacy for Gun Control

Most of the calls for the government to implement gun control have been in reaction to tragic incidents involving the killing of individuals by attackers possessing guns. Butkus and Doherty (2014) confirm that the mass shootings that occurred in 2012 at Sandy Hook Elementary and in 2007 at Virginia Tech University have brought firearm violence to the forefront of national discussion. Supporters of gun control argue that the perpetrators of these deadly shootings would not have been able to carry out the crimes.

Another reason why stringent gun control is called for is that guns are assumed to result in increases in criminal activities. Butkus and Doherty (2014) document that homicide by firearms results in 11,000 deaths each year. In addition to this, criminals exploit the ease with which guns can be accessed in the US to acquire the weapons and use them to commit robberies. Advocates of gun control, therefore, declare that stringent policies on gun ownership would increase security by making it harder for criminals to access firearms.
