Science the "write" Way Jodi Wheeler-Toppen, 2011 Writing skills are high on the list of real world requirements for all students. Including science students. Every scientific discipline needs professionals who can ably communicate in writing. Scientists must be able to describe their proposed studies for funding considerations, track their observations and results in their own notes, describe their experimental protocols for their peers to replicate and synthesize their work to the wider world community.

Learning Journals in the K-8 Classroom Marcia S. Popp, 2012-11-12 Learning Journals in the K-8 Classroom is the first comprehensive presentation of how to use academic journals effectively for elementary level instruction. The text outlines the theoretical foundations for using learning journals and provides step by step suggestions for implementing them in every content area and at all levels of elementary instruction. Learning journals provide resources and support for reading aloud, independent reading, mini lessons, cooperative study, individual research workshops, and the portfolio system. The type of interactive writing students do in learning journals helps them explore complex ideas in the content areas using their own strengths of analysis and response; the journals then become resources for future learning group discussions, individual conferences, learning assessment reports, and progress. Four introductory chapters show teachers how to create their own journals, introduce journals to students, integrate them with cooperative study, and use them for assessment. Additional chapters focus on the individual curriculum areas of literature, writing, mathematics, science, and social studies. The text includes sample entries from student journals at all grade levels and in every content area and appendices of annotated resources to support journaling and interviews with teachers who use journals in their classrooms.

How to Assess Authentic Learning Kay Burke, 2009-10-07 Create assessments that meet state standards and target students learning needs. In this revised edition of her bestseller, Kay Burke provides a wide range of easy to implement alternative assessments that address today's accountability requirements. Designed for use across all content areas, these formative assessments are rooted in the language of state standards and emphasize differentiating instruction to meet students diverse learning needs. Updated research and examples help K-12 teachers.

Build Response to Intervention checklists for struggling students. Develop unit plans using differentiated learning and assessment strategies. Create portfolios that emphasize metacognition. Design performance tasks that motivate and engage students. Construct rubrics that describe indicators of quality work. Create tests that focus on higher order thinking skills.
