This new report offers a starting point for a new shared understanding of the threat. It begins not with a look at the official positions of states with regard to nonproliferation initiatives but instead aims to help experts and interested observers understand some of the underlying historical, political, and cultural bases on which national views in Europe on nuclear threats are founded. These papers help reveal a range of views on nuclear weapons and proliferation and shed light on some of the attitudes that underpin national policies on key issues. Factory, 1911 Vols 24 no 3 v 34 no 3 include International industrial digest
