The main area is a piano roll with a vertical axis for pitch and a horizontal axis for time. It features several tracks of MIDI notes, some with velocity curves, and a piano roll editor for editing notes and their properties.

The lower section of the interface is a digital mixer console. It features a series of channel strips, each with a fader, knobs for EQ and dynamics, and a solo button. The faders are currently set to various levels, and the knobs are adjusted for each track. The mixer is designed to allow for precise control of the audio signal for each track.
