SCIENCE

Today's Mission:

You live in a town that believes it is running out of rainwater! Because there has been no rain in a week, the town has voted to limit shower/bath times and stop production of soda and juice. You must educate your whole town on the cycling of water in a way that even small children can understand. Use your storytelling skills to write about the journey a water

Creatively improve your students' science literacy

Then, brainstorm the beginning, middle, and end of your narrative.

Think about the Sun's energy and its part in the water cycle.

Think about gravity and its effect on a droplet.

Think about the sources of water we drink.
