

Light Reflection

Directions: Read the instructions before you start your work.

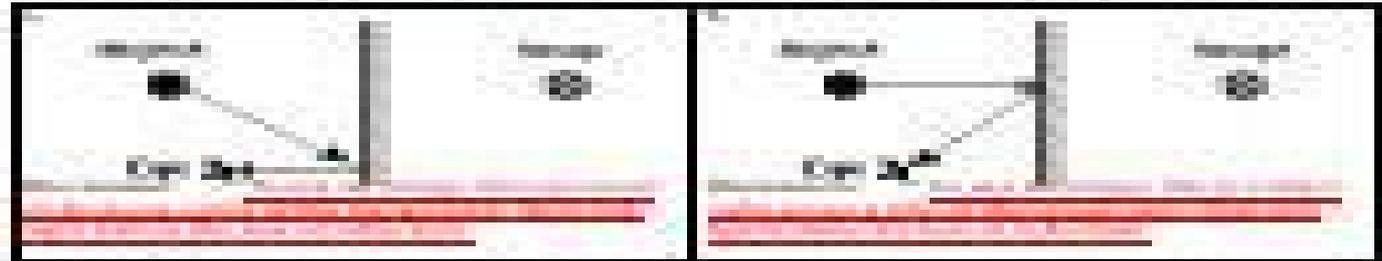

1. Use a pencil to draw a vertical line on the paper. This line represents the surface of the mirror. Label the surface as "Mirror".

2. Draw a horizontal line across the page, representing the surface of the table.

3. Place a ruler on the table. The ruler should be parallel to the horizontal line you drew. The ruler represents the surface of the table.

4. Place a small object (like a coin) on the table. The object should be to the left of the mirror. This object represents the object being reflected.

5. Draw a line from the object to the mirror. This line represents the incident ray. Draw another line from the mirror to the reflection. This line represents the reflected ray.

6. Measure the angle between the incident ray and the mirror. This is the angle of incidence.

7. Measure the angle between the reflected ray and the mirror. This is the angle of reflection.

8. Compare the angle of incidence and the angle of reflection. Are they equal?

9. Repeat the experiment with different objects and positions.

10. Write a conclusion about your experiment. What do you think about the relationship between the angle of incidence and the angle of reflection?

11. Draw a line from the object to the mirror. This line represents the incident ray. Draw another line from the mirror to the reflection. This line represents the reflected ray.
