Exploring Human Genetics

Genetics is the study of how traits are passed from parents to offspring. In this lab, you will explore the inheritance of a specific trait and use statistical analysis to determine if the observed results match the expected Mendelian ratios.

Procedure:

1. Identify a trait that follows simple Mendelian inheritance (e.g., earlobe attachment).

2. Record the phenotypes of both parents and their offspring.

3. Calculate the expected phenotypic ratios based on the parents' genotypes.

4. Perform a chi-square analysis to compare the observed results to the expected ratios.
