

A quick guide to Harvard referencing

Why reference at all?

Referencing is an important part of academic writing, and it is something that you may find yourself doing later in your career as well. We reference for a lot of different reasons but at the heart of it lies a few key principles; acknowledge, authority, findability.

Acknowledge: We reference to acknowledge the sources we have used to build our own understanding of a topic. This demonstrates that these points are not necessarily our own work or ideas but that they have helped formed our own arguments. It also helps us to avoid plagiarism.

Authority: By demonstrating that we have looked at other key thinkers and researchers in an area, we add weight and authority to our argument. It shows that we have a nuanced and critical understanding of the issues and that we have based our thinking on evidence.

Findability: Lastly, a good reference will signpost your reader so that they can read and learn more about this topic. Don't underestimate this part; think about how often you use someone else's references to discover more about a certain subject.

Parts of a reference

Referencing is usually done in two parts; the in-text citation and the full reference, usually listed at the end of your essay or assignment.

In-text citation

The in-text citation gives immediate acknowledgment to the author(s) of the research or work you are referring to. It is used to indicate that a particular argument or the supporting evidence you are using has originated with someone else. It should contain the author(s) surname and date of publication.

Reference

The reference list at the end of your assignment will give the full information about the source you are referencing. You must include the full reference for every piece of work you cite. This information will help direct your reader to the original source so they can learn more about the points you are discussing, whilst acknowledging the contribution of the original author to this field of interest.

How to reference...

A book with one author

Citation order: Surname, Initial. (Year of publication) Title of book in italics. Edition number if relevant. Place of publication: Publisher.

Example: In-text citation: Botting (2008, p.19) states that...

Reference list: Botting, F. (2008) Gothic romanced: consumption, gender and technology in contemporary fictions. London: Routledge.
