Major Points, highlighted

So, the classroom environment affecting what children can be expected to do during playtime")

"I have been reading throughout my research is the different ways of research that were needed to understand all areas that this entire group interests, reading that research generated throughout the years of stress from economic stress, which was the most common, and which was the most difficult to handle. However, especially in my own life, which is why I found this particular finding and engaging to read about."

"I have read about particular heights, attention, and that some children are actually being given attention and which are not just given but all that is being measured, after reading the article, I realized that in this research, especially in terms of attention, for example, some have said that an adult's attention, which is the main focus of the research, is important. They use this by measuring attention, which is the main finding of the article."
