

Essay Type Questions – Writing How to answer the questions?

Answers to essay questions only receive complete credit if they directly answer the question that was asked.

1. Before planning or writing an answer, read through the whole question first. As you read through the question, jot down any information that comes to mind.
2. Budget your time. Make sure you allot roughly the same amount of time to answer each question on the test. First answer the question that you know best.
3. Read each question carefully and determine exactly what you are being asked to do. Underline cue and key words in the question and any specific writing instructions.
4. Plan before you write. Take a few minutes to jot down ideas and then structure your answer by creating a brief outline which includes main and supporting points.
5. Stay on the topic. Answer only the question asked; don't wander off in new areas. Most instructors prefer clear, well-structured answers. They don't appreciate filler. Carefully read each word you have written and neatly make any corrections needed. In the outline, focus on the main points that should be included in the essay and the specifics that are needed to support each main point.

Use notes and assigned readings to formulate questions, remembering that essay questions test more than one's memory for basic facts. Typically, instructors want students to demonstrate a clear understanding of major concepts and ideas and to extend and apply that knowledge in the essay answer.
