  - The American Nurses Association: "Principles for nursing documentation: Guidance for registered nurses" (bit.ly/3rjinKW)

- Review and evaluate student notations as part of the clinical curriculum. Provide feedback for improvement and include in the course grade.

Organizational leaders

How can you support quality nursing documentation to reduce the likelihood of adverse patient outcomes?

- Implement a nursing department quality initiative related to documentation and ask nurse managers to conduct audits of a sample of patient records. Share results with staff and develop improvement strategies.
- Include documentation as a staff competency and provide annual skills education.
- Create Just Culture transparency with no blame/no fault opportunities for improvement. Use adverse patient outcomes as positive learning experiences.
- Share pertinent information with nursing leaders and quality improvement staff to develop case studies and best practices as part of education opportunities.
- Review policies and procedures to reduce nurse documentation burden, such as maintaining adequate staffing and providing good communication on process improvements and system changes.
