

Writing Effective Reports

A. What are Reports?

Reports are documents which both give a reader information and ask the reader to do something with that information. Reports can be used:

- to suggest new ideas and options;
- to ask people to accept a point of view;
- to influence decisions;
- to ask people to make choices between alternative recommendations

Therefore a well structured and well written report can be a very influential document.

A report will usually follow a simple format which can be identified over and over again as you look through the reports written by academics, agencies or individuals. One of the key issues is to carefully provide signposts' for the reader throughout the report. Use headings, sub headings, bullet points (but remember to use full sentences rather than notes here) and new paragraphs for new topics.

The format may be influenced by the purpose and length of the report. There are nine identifiable sections in most reports, although a contents list and abstract are usually only used with a long report.

- 1 Title or title page
- 2 Contents list
- 3 Abstract
- 4 Introduction
- 5 Discussion
- 6 Conclusions
- 7 Summary
- 8 Recommendations
- 9 Appendices (and don't forget the reference list when writing an academic report)

B. The Format of a Report

1. Title or title page

It helps the reader to know what the report is about to have a title and sometimes a brief explanation of the purpose of the report. In a longer report you can have a short title and a long, more descriptive title. You should also identify the audience for the report, who has written it (the authors) and when it was written (the date).

Tavian, 2013-06-29 For two decades I have been responding to questions about the nature of health psychology and how it differs from medical psychology behavioral medicine and clinical psychology From the beginning I have taken the position that any application of psychological theory or practice to problems and issues of the health system is health psychology I have repeatedly used an analogy to Newell and Simon's General Problem Solver program of the late 1950s and early 1960s which had two major functional parts in addition to the executive component One was the problem solving core the procedural competence the other was the representation of the problem environment In the analogy the concepts knowledge and techniques of psychology constitute the core competence the health system in all its complexity is the problem environment A health psychologist is one whose basic competence in psychology is augmented by a working knowledge of some aspect of the health system Quite apparently there are functionally distinct aspects of health psychology to the degree that there are meaningful subdivisions in psychological competence and significantly different microenvironments within the health system I hesitate to refer to them as areas of specialization as the man who gave health psychology its formal definition Joseph Matarazzo has said that there are no specialties in psychology cited in the editors preface to this book Combined Kansas Reports Kansas, 1881 Included the reports of the executive officers and for many years those of the educational and charitable institutions The School Psychology Practicum and Internship Handbook Eric Rossen, Diana Joyce-Beaulieu, 2015-08-18 The School Psychology Practicum and Internship Handbook is an outstanding resource written by known leaders in the field to assist graduate students in effectively navigating common ethical issues promoting strong supervisory relationships and becoming skilled self advocates As a former school psychologist and now doctoral intern I find this book is a gold mine of information that can be immediately applied to strengthen training experiences and develop the highest standards for future practice Sheila Desai NCSP Doctoral Candidate in School Psychology University of Massachusetts Boston Supervising practicum and internship is challenging but Joyce Beaulieu and Rossen make it infinitely easier with this handbook The practical information and extensive resources provide university supervisors what they need to implement best practice supervision This user friendly book is a must have for all school psychology supervisors and is sure to become one of the best supervision resources in our field Lisa Kelly Vance PhD Professor and Director School Psychology University of Nebraska at Omaha The first comprehensive guide for school psychology practica and internships Tailored to the unique educational requirements of school psychology this is the first complete guide to practicum and internship for school psychology students and faculty Replete with practical information and advice the book introduces students to a variety of professional issues they may be required to navigate during their supervised field based experiences The book covers all aspects of the entry level practicum ranging from orientation to the professional's role to portfolio and competency
