Deconstructing Product Design William Lidwell, Gerry Manacsa, 2011-10 What makes a product successful How it looks The way it functions Its ease of use Or do factors like price and marketing dominate In a quest to find answers to these questions Deconstructing Product Design engages readers in a process of critically analyzing a diverse collection of 100 innovative products from well known classics to contemporary objects of desire The goal is to support critical thinking about design facilitate discovery of patterns of success and failure across products and enable readers to apply lessons learned to their own design work Experts from multiples design disciplines contribute commentary including Robert Blaich industrial design Jill Butler graphic design Alan Cooper technology design Brock Danner architecture Kimberly Elam graphic design Donald Emmite design history Larimie Garcia graphic arts Scott Henderson product design Kritina Holden human factors Robert Kingslyn graphic design Jon Kolko interaction design Lyle Sandler experience design Rob Tannen human factors Dori Tunstall Design Anthropology Steven Umbach Product Design Paula Wellings interaction design Continue the deconstruction at www.deconstructingproductdesign.com Cooperative Communications Gerhard Kramer, Ivana Marić, Roy D. Yates, 2007 Cooperative Communications reviews progress in cooperative communication networks It assembles a representative sample of recent results to serve as a roadmap for the area The emphasis is on wireless networks but many of the results apply to cooperation in wireline networks and mixed wireless wireline networks Cooperative Communications is intended as a tutorial for the reader who is familiar with information theory concepts but has not actively followed the field For the active researcher it serves as an invaluable digest of significant results It is designed to encourage readers to find new ways to apply the fundamental ideas of network cooperation It is also intended to make the area sufficiently accessible to practicing network designers FCC Record United States. Ahson, 2006 Analyzing the new technology of Smartphones in great detail this guide discusses relevant reference solutions the role of middleware on related operating systems and how cell phone vendors consequently confront this growing challenge A very detailed and cogent perspective on the world of Smartphones the report examines its vast feature sets reveals its impact on other leading technologies and companies and supplies extensive case studies on how Smartphones enhance user productivity and encourage deployment of user applications Annual Institute on Telecommunications, 2007 Competing for and with Human Capital J. Stewart Black, 2019-05-28 Executives say that people are their most important asset but most don't walk the talk They don't have systematic strategies for how to get the people they want to want them They don't have measures and metrics for how they are doing to be the employer of choice They don't hold leaders accountable regarding those ambitions In many cases this is because top leaders don't have concrete tools to help them do what they know they should. This book fills that gap in three major sections. The first section supports with clear and compelling data what executives intuitively but somewhat superficially believe that people are their most important asset. The second section provides a systematic process and set of tools to help leaders get the people they want to want them; it shows executives how to win the competition for human capital. The third section then helps leaders position people appropriately so that they can create a sustainable competitive advantage; it shows executives how to compete with human capital. When it comes to human capital, most books get it wrong. Strategy books place human capital to the side as an enabler of competitive advantage. HR books treat human capital as a support activity to business strategy. This book places human capital where it should be: not to the side and not as an enabler or a support activity but at the center and as the source of competitive advantage.
