

Human Karyotyping

Answer Key

Background: Chromosomes are structures that carry genetic information and determine your characteristics (genes are the DNA code segments).

Goal: This activity will make students aware of the structure, basic functions, and general location of chromosomes in most eukaryotic animals and humans (in the case of human karyotyping).

1. Introduction: You will work in small groups to make a human karyotype. Each member will have one pair of chromosomes.

1a. What are (general) characteristics/structure of all chromosomes? (Do not draw a chromosome unless asked)

Chromosomes are long, thin, thread-like structures that carry the DNA instructions that control the structure, function, and development of the body's cells.

1b. What do (general) different groups of chromosomes look like?

Chromosomes will vary. Chromosomes from the same chromosome set are usually the same size and shape. The only human chromosome that is noticeably smaller than the others is the Y chromosome. Human sex (the chromosomes) differs based on a pair of chromosomes. Females have two X chromosomes.

Student Activities

Students will organize through the chromosomes of a set of chromosomes into groups (coloring is only a reinforcement provided dependent on grade).

2. The Human Karyotyping Process: you will make karyotypes for two individuals. One is from a real human (DNA code). Use the process to make the other, the chromosome of a chromosome of the chromosome of the cell.

3. What does the appearance of the chromosomes change as you move through the cell?

The size, shape, and density appear to change (change in the chromosome set structure of the chromosome).

4. Explain the chromosome behavior & how it fits in with cell development/changes:

How is chromosome structure from the 1 chromosome?
