

***15.33 (Game: bean-machine animation) Write a program that animates the bean machine introduced in Programming Exercise 7.21. The animation terminates after ten balls are dropped, as shown in Figure 15.36b and c.

***15.34 (Simulation: self-avoiding random walk) A self-avoiding walk in a lattice is a path from one point to another that does not visit the same point twice. Self-avoiding walks have applications in physics, chemistry, and mathematics. They can be used to model chain-like entities such as solvents and polymers. Write a program that displays a random path that starts from the center and ends at a point on the boundary, as shown in Figure 15.37a or ends at a dead-end point (i.e., surrounded by four points that have already been visited), as shown in Figure 15.37b. Assume the size of the lattice is 16 by 16.

FIGURE 15.37 (a) A path ends at a boundary point. (b) A path ends at dead-end point. (c and d) Animation shows the progress of a path step by step.

***15.35 (Animation: self-avoiding random walk) Revise the preceding exercise to display the walk step by step in an animation, as shown in Figure 15.37c and d.

**15.36 (Simulation: self-avoiding random walk) Write a simulation program to show that the chance of getting dead-end paths increases as the grid size increases. Your program simulates lattices with size from 10 to 80. For each lattice size, simulate a self-avoiding random walk 10,000 times and display the probability of the dead-end paths, as shown in the following sample output:

```
For a lattice of size 10, the probability of dead-end paths is 10.6%
For a lattice of size 11, the probability of dead-end paths is 14.0%
For a lattice of size 80, the probability of dead-end paths is 99.5%
```
